The boys had just wanted to have some fun, like all the other children in the neighbourhood. That was why they had come up with a game to pass time. Farhan had brought his tennis ball and they had taken turns trying to hit some targets they had set up in an empty plot of land. Initially, they enjoyed themselves trying to knock the targets down. However, when it was Jeff's turn, he threw the ball too hard, causing it to fly over to the house next door, hitting the windows of Mr Gomez's house.

Their initial reaction was one of shock. No one knew what to do. The three boys stood in a circle looking at one another, with helpless expressions on their faces. They were in serious trouble now. Nathan shrugged his shoulders and forced a laugh out, trying to ease the tension. However, after a few minutes when the inevitable did not happen, the boys became puzzled. Was Mr Gomez not at home? Was that why he had not stormed out of the house to confront the culprit who had broken his window? It was not possible that he could not have heard the glass shattering just moments ago for Mr Gomez was known to complain to his neighbours about their dogs' barking a few houses away. Also, the possibility that he was away was unlikely as he was a recluse who spent most of his time at home and hardly ventured out, except to the supermarket for his weekly grocery shopping.

The boys approached Mr Gomez's house slowly. Nathan peered through the broken window and his jaw dropped at the sight before him. Mr Gomez was lying unconscious on the kitchen floor! Beside him lay his walking stick which he usually used to aid him in walking as well as their tennis ball. Had Mr Gomez been hit by their ball? With a guilty conscience, the boys rushed to call for an ambulance. The paramedics soon arrived and sent Mr Gomez to the hospital. As the boys watched the departing ambulance drive off for the hospital, they hoped that Mr Gomez would be all right.

After a few hours, the boys learnt from their parents that Mr Gomez had not been hit by their ball. Rather, he had fainted because he was suffering from high blood pressure. Although the boys were relieved that it had not been their fault, they visited Mr Gomez in hospital and told him about how they had broken his window. Mr Gomez praised them for their honesty and thanked them for breaking his window. If not, they would not have discovered him and he might not have been sent to the hospital in time. The boys smiled sheepishly at one another, glad that everything had turned out fine in the end.
For each question from 26 to 30, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Choose the correct answer and shade the corresponding oval on the Optical Answer Sheet (OAS) provided.

26. Why were the boys in the empty plot of land?
   (1) They wanted to play tennis.
   (2) They wanted to enjoy themselves.
   (3) They wanted to be like everyone else in the neighbourhood.
   (4) They wanted to hit Mr Gomez's window with their tennis ball.

27. What was the boys' first reaction when the ball broke the window?
   (1) They were stunned
   (2) They were perplexed.
   (3) They did not know what to do.
   (4) They laughed to ease the tension.

28. What does 'the inevitable' in line 10 refer to?
   (1) It refers to Mr Gomez not being at home.
   (2) It refers to Mr Gomez not hearing his window shattering.
   (3) It refers to Mr Gomez complaining about the barking of his neighbours' dogs.
   (4) It refers to Mr Gomez coming out of the house and scolding them for breaking his window.

29. According to paragraph three, which of the following is not true?
   (1) Mr Gomez walked with the help of a walking stick.
   (2) Nathan was surprised to find Mr Gomez lying on the floor.
   (3) The boys were in Mr Gomez's house when they found him.
   (4) The boys thought they were responsible for Mr Gomez's condition.

30. According to the last paragraph, why were the boys 'relieved'? (line 28)
   (1) Mr Gomez was going to be all right.
   (2) Mr Gomez had high blood pressure.
   (3) Mr Gomez had not been hit by their ball.
   (4) Mr Gomez had been sent to the hospital in time.

There are 10 blanks, numbered 31 to 40 in the passage below. From the list of words in the box, choose the most suitable answer for each blank and write its letter (A to Q) in it. “I” and “O” have been omitted to avoid confusion in marking.

Use each word only ONCE.

A) as   D) by   G) in   K) should   N) upon
B) at   E) could   H) of   L) that   P) with
C) and   F) for   J) on   M) this   Q) within

Mr Wee decided to try his luck. “Are you up (31) ____________ a game of tennis?” he asked his son with enthusiasm. All he got in return was a grunt, followed (32) ____________ silence.

Mr Wee sighed. How was he ever going to spend quality time (33) ____________ Luke? Their relationship had never been close (34) ____________ it seemed to be getting worse and worse, especially after he had given Luke the latest mobile phone for his birthday.

Mr Wee had bought that gadget with the hopes (35) ____________ his son would become closer to him, but he was badly disappointed. It had only succeeded (36) ____________ drawing his son away from him. Luke hardly spoke to him any more. He spent all his time (37) ____________ the gadget, living in a world of his own.

Knowing that he could not allow the situation to carry on, Mr Wee thought (38) ____________ a plan. While his son was sleeping, he (39) ____________ hide the gadget so that his son would not be able to find it. His son would probably be angry for a few days but Mr Wee was confident that Luke would get over it (40) ____________ a few days and tennis would once again interest him. With that, he set out to carry out his plan.
Section H – Editing for Spelling and Grammar (10 × 1 mark)
Correct each word in bold for spelling and each underlined word for grammar. Write the correct word in the relevant box.

(41) It was the examination period. Jason looked forward to have tests and examinations in school. He studied hard for them because his parents could give him rewards whenever he did well.

(43) When Jason succeeded in scoring full marks for his weekly spelling tests, he received his favourite action figures. When he did well for his examinations, he looked forward to be taken to the largest toy store in town. There, he could buy anything he wanted.

(47) Although Jason was a conscientious boy, he only worked hard because he was rewarded. Since he was not rewarded for his daily work, he did it sloppily. He also did not handed in his work on time.

(50) Jason’s parents were in a dilemma. They were afraid that he might start doing badly in school if they removed the reward system. They had to come up with a new plan quickly.

66. Candy asked Jane, "Where are these books supposed to go?"
   Candy: ..........................................................................................................................

67. I will pursue the matter. I must find out the truth.
   Till: ..................................................................................................................................

68. I have just met George. He is a pilot.
   ...................................................................................................................................... whom

69. Kitty likes to chase mice. She always sleeps at noon.
   ...................................................................................................................................... who

70. She is arrogant. No one will want to support her cause.
   ........................................................................................................................................

The morning mist had just begun to clear. The faintest hint of sunlight beamed through the drifting clouds and a cool morning breeze swept lightly across Terri. She stretched herself and prepared herself, for the moment she had been waiting for.

Terri adjusted the lens of her long range camera. She peeped through the eyepiece at an object almost five hundred metres away. Yet, through the powerful lens, the object looked as if it was right under her nose. She wriggled slightly on her belly, careful not to make any noise, for it was about time the badgers would appear.

Badgers are known by nature lovers to be shy and they only appeared in the open at first light. In the nature reserve, they sometimes came just to swim near the shore in search of food. Badgers are also known to go into hiding when they sense humans or when they hear an unfamiliar sound. Thus, Terri performed a final check to see if her camera and flash were muted.

Terri waited for a few moments and as she turned her camera to scan the surroundings, she saw two objects which looked like coconut husks bobbing near the shoreline. To an amateur, those “husks” would appear to be something insignificant. However, to an experienced wildlife photographer like Terri, she could immediately tell that they were the shiny tops of the badgers.

Terri smiled to herself as she took tens of photos of the badgers. One of the shots involved a badger almost looking right into the camera’s lens! Terri thought to herself, “That would be the cover photo for the second edition of the Wildlife Book!”

As Terri proceeded to take more photos, the badgers seemed satisfied and swam away from the shoreline towards the direction of their burrows on the other end of the lake. Terri got up, finally able to stretch and let out a loud yawn. She packed her equipment carefully and placed them in her bag. She glanced at her watch, and saw that she could finally catch a nap and have her meal before her next assignment in the nature reserve: The Ruby-throated Hummingbirds.

Humans have always favoured hummingbirds. They are the only birds which do not harm crops or livestock, made loud noises, foul the environment with their droppings or attack when handled by human hands. The Ruby-throated hummingbird is especially prized for its eye-catching colours and its intelligence.

As Terri aimed her camera into a dull patch of green in the nature reserve, she could hear a buzz in the distance. As the buzz got louder, the patch of green began to be lit with spectacular ruby hues. Terri clicked away with great delight, knowing that it had been a productive day from dawn to dusk. Very few, if any, wildlife photographers will ever have a day like this.
'For each question from 71 to 80, write your answer in the space provided. All answers must be in complete sentences.

71. What was Terri waiting for in Paragraph 1?

72. Which three-word phrase in the passage tells us that Terri was lying face down?

73. How do you know that the camera's lens was powerful?

74. What was Terri's occupation?

75. According to the passage, what was a likely reason that the badgers swam away?

76. State two reasons why hummingbirds are favoured by humans.
77. Why did Terri stretch and give out a loud yawn only after the badgers had left?

78. What do the spectacular ruby hues in the last paragraph refer to?

79. Why did Terri consider it to be a productive day?

80. Do you think that Terri has a good understanding of wildlife? Provide one example from the passage to explain your answer.
